When top level guys look down
they see only shit.

When bottom level guys look up they see only assholes.

The future now

- The MeWes have been raised during a period full of change, with multiple perspectives and conflicting paradigms. The MeWes is a generation so full of inner contradictions and paradoxes.
- They are a generation with aspirations, dreams, and ideals about a high-speed life in balance, which seems as a contradiction itself. In a historic context they could be considered romanticists, putting ideas and ideals first, not money and fame; Go in for inner emotions rather than looks and superficial surface. The question is, whether these youngsters will complete the romantic society, or whether they will balance emotions with reason and bring society into a flourishing New Renaissance.
